

Steve Evans

Steve Evans is a full-time lecturer in English at Flinders University, teaching Literature, Creative Writing, and Narrative Theory. He is a literary editor for Australian and international publications and has also been widely published here and overseas.

He has been awarded various prizes including the Queensland Premier's Poetry Award (1995), as well as having been short listed for various other awards. He is the current Barbara Hanrahan Fellow (2008).

Steve has published eleven books, including six of his own poetry. The most recent collection of poetry is 'Taking Shape' (Five Islands Press, 2004), and his history/anthology of the Friendly Street Poets, 'Best of Friends' (with Kate Deller-Evans), was launched at Adelaide's Writers' Week in 2008.