How to complete your study plan

Step 1

Research your university's requirements

- Make sure you know what your home university requires you to study while you are at Monash.
- Remember that you will receive credit towards your degree at home for your study at Monash so your home university's requirements are paramount.
- Your international or study abroad office may be able to assist you with preparing your study plan at Monash.

Step 2

Ensure you meet the Monash English language requirements

- English is the language of instruction at every Monash campus and therefore the English language requirements apply to every campus. The requirements can be viewed at: www.monash.edu/study/international/apply/entry-requirements-english.html.

Step 3

Carefully read the Course Information section of the Monash website

Australia: www.monash.edu/international/studyabroad/course-info

Malaysia: www.monash.edu/international/studyabroad/course-info

South Africa: www.monash.ac.za/prospective/courses

- You must read these web pages before you start on your study plan.
- They contain detailed information about the terminology used at Monash, the units (courses) which are open to exchange and study abroad students, and how to read the unit codes.
- Most faculties have general requirements which apply to all exchange and study abroad students studying any units in those faculties. Check these on the website before completing your study plan as they can restrict your choice of units or require you to attach additional documentation to your application. www.monash.edu/international/studyabroad/course-info/restrictions.html

Select the units (courses) you want to study at Monash

- Use the links on the website to select the units you want to study at Monash.
- List all the units you want to study in Section 5 of this application form.
- Select 6-8 units per semester in case some cannot be approved or there are timetable clashes.
- Check the pre-requisites for the units you want to do and make sure the transcript you include with your application shows clearly that you have met the pre-requisites.
- Carefully check the semester, campus and level of all the units you choose.
- All exchange and study abroad students must be enrolled in a full time load of on campus units ie 18 or 24 credit points per semester (3-4 units).
- Indicate on your study plan whether any of the units you have selected are required by your home university.
- If you are applying to come to Monash for two semesters, choose units for both semesters based on the unit information available at the time you apply. You will be able to review and change the units for your second semester towards the end of your first semester.

Step 5

Have your application endorsed by your home university.

- This is essential to ensure that you receive credit towards your degree for the study you do at Monash.
- Your study abroad or exchange office must sign Section 7 of the application.

Step 6

Organise one academic reference in English

- It should be from a member of staff at your home university who is familiar with your ability in the subject areas you wish to pursue at Monash University. In the case of non-native English speakers, it would be helpful if the reference was from someone who is able to comment on your English language proficiency.

Step 7

Pre-approval of your study plan

- After your application is received by Monash Abroad your study plan will be sent to the relevant faculty (or faculties if you have chosen units from more than one) for approval of the units you have selected.
- Monash Abroad will then send a list of pre-approved units with your offer letter.
- While you will have been approved in advance to enrol in these units, your enrolment will take place after you arrive at Monash and is subject to timetable availability and any last minute changes made to unit choices.
- You may be able to change units after you arrive but approval to enrol in different units is at the discretion of the relevant faculty and you may be required to produce original transcripts or other documentation.
